

Possibility Fellowship 2026

13 March 2026 - 30 May 2026
Port Kennedy Community Centre

Tell me, what is it you plan to do with your one wild and precious life? – Mary Oliver

What is the Possibility Fellowship?

The course aims to offer an embodied understanding of how communing and the quality of our relationships is the foundation of community. It hopes to nourish our individual and collective capacity to adapt to the ever-changing complexities of life, finding new ways of living together that are enlivening for us all.

Is this for me?

Yes, if you....

- Wish to connect more deeply with yourself and with others
- Are at a crossroads in your life and looking for new direction or inspiration
- Are active in community, supporting marginalised groups or advocating for change...
- Are seeking to find and nourish your own voice and calling, be it in the domain of policy or politics, science or scholarship

Reimagining new possibilities for how we live as communities, together

What might the benefits be?

You are likely to:

- Experience and deepen your capacity for 'communings' — showing up with one another with genuine appreciation and deep respect — as the foundation of community.
- Make and deepen relationships within and beyond your Fellowship group, including with people from diverse backgrounds and life experiences.
- Review your assumptions and perhaps see life and the world differently.
- Gain confidence and inspiration for combining with others and taking meaningful action.
- Play with the question "Who can I be with you, and who can you be with me?"

In what ways will I learn?

You'll be learning through the art of

- Gift discovery
- Focusing
- Storytelling
- Games
- Warm Data Labs
- Poetry

Meet your Hosts

Peter le Breton

Peter is a free-range elder with a background in business, government, and academia. He holds a PhD in Transformative Studies and has been recognised with awards from Murdoch University and the Australian Government for his contributions to student learning. He is a certified Warm Data Lab Host. Peter is passionate about resisting 'the machine' and moving towards "the more beautiful world our hearts know is possible."

Nicola le Breton

Nicola-Jane le Breton is a passionate and experienced storyteller, a Certified Trainer and Advanced Master Facilitator of the Core Gift Discovery process, a Warm Data Lab Host, and a Focusing Trainer with The International Focusing Institute (TIFI), trained in Inner Relationship Focusing and Focusing Somatics. Since 2022, she and her partner Peter have co-hosted The Possibility Fellowship. Nicola thrives on connecting people and opening transformative possibilities through humanity's great shifters and shakers – Stories!

Trish Owen

Trish Owen has graduated from the University of Hard Knocks. Her personal experience of disadvantage includes housing insecurity, mental ill health and alcohol/drug issues. In 2022 she completed The Possibility Fellowship. Trish's passion is drawing on adversities she has survived and her intersecting privileges (she is a white, educated, able-bodied, cisgendered woman) to support individuals and organisations to live harmoniously. As a certified Warm Data Lab Host, she is finding that a key to meaningful change and overcoming fear is authentic and vulnerable communication.

What past participants had to say.....

"Last weekend I finished the most amazing course I have done so far. Words would never be enough to express my journey throughout The Possibility Fellowship. The course was a story-filled exploration of what's possible for me and my communities, for reimagining new possibilities for me, others and the world."

– Patricia Villa

"When I started I was in limbo. Do I walk back on the path I was going on, or do I try to find something different, something new? I learned that my community work doesn't have to be grand, that it can start from the people all around me. The Fellowship experience gave me clarity about my gifts and confidence to give them."
